- September 19 & 20: Some 40 internationally renowned chefs will converge on NYC for the "StarChefs.com International Chefs Congress: A Kitchen Without Boundaries," a historic coming together of the professional culinary community at the Covenant House (346 W. 17th St.). The two-day conference will feature chef demonstrations and panel discussions, hands-on chef workshops, industry seminars and a dinner series. Among the presenting toques are Albert Adrià, Pascal Barbot, Anthony Bourdain, Fergus Henderson, David Myers, Ken Oringer, Patricia Quintana, Eric Ripert and many others (tickets are by invitation only and limited to food service industry professionals; for more information, go to www.starchefs.com).
- September 20: The public can get a taste of the "StarChefs.com International Chefs Congress" at its gala finale, the annual "New York Rising Stars Revue." This year's theme will be "high concept street food" (think hamachi snow cones and foie gras hot dogs), served by up-and-coming chefs such as Gregory Brainin (Jean Georges Restaurants), Iacopo Falai (Falai), Zak Pelaccio (5 Ninth, Fatty Crab), Alex Ureña (Ureña) and Galen Zamarra (Mas); all dishes will be paired with wines chosen by sommelier Arnaud Devulder of db Bistro Moderne (8–10:30 PM; $125 per person; $200 VIP admission is also available; Crobar, 530 W. 28th St.; www.starchefs.com).
