Book Signing Sunday in NYC

The Starchefs.com Chef Congress begins tomorrow, Sunday 9/14, at the Armory on Park Avenue and East 66th, and runs through Tuesday. I'll be signing books at the Kitchen Arts & Letters booth near the main stage Sunday from 1:30 to 2. I'm only praying that insufferable Bourdain character won't be there at the same time. He tends to hog all the book buyers.

Heston Blumenthal of The Fat Duck is Sunday's keynote speaker at 11:15. At 5:30, I'm moderating a discussion between Bourdain and Marco Pierre White. That ought to be interesting. I've asked for a pitcher of Negronis and one chef knife to be placed on the table between them.

On Monday morning, my friend and Charcuterie co-author Brian Polcyn will give a charcuterie demo. If you want hands on charcuterie advice, here's your chance. Brian's a great teacher.
